The Civil Service Club in Great Scotland Yard is a unique organization in a special building at the historic heart of government in Whitehall. Upon her accession to the throne in 1952, Her Majesty the Queen made the premises available to the Club to provide 'a social facility within the reach of all.'

The Civil Service Club provides a well stocked bar, restaurant along with overnight accommodation for members and their guests in comfortable, friendly surroundings. The Club also caters for private functions including luncheons, dinners, work meetings, retirements and a variety of social and work gatherings.

Membership of the Club is open to all Civil Servants (current, former or retired) or work for a Public Body Organization like Crown agencies.
