

TRANSFORMING BREAKROOM FACILITIES FOR NHS HEROES

Imperial Health Charity

New staff 'lounges' open their doors to hospital heroes

Hard-working hospital staff can now relax and unwind in two brand new lounge areas, thanks to a £1.2m programme of improvements funded by Imperial Health Charity with support from NHS Charities Together.

These stunning new spaces at Charing Cross Hospital and Hammersmith Hospital in north west London offer a calm, quiet and relaxing space for staff to take a break, enjoy a bite to eat or spend quality time with colleagues.

“Having this wonderful space to relax and unwind during our breaks has helped to ensure the whole team feels valued and recognised for their efforts.”

'A calm and quiet space for staff to rest and reflect'

The new lounges are part of a major programme of improvements to staff facilities at our hospitals in response to the pandemic. Since April 2021, more than 80 upgrade projects have been completed at Imperial College Healthcare NHS Trust, including three fully refurbished breakrooms and enhancements to dozens of staff changing areas, showers, toilets and kitchen facilities.
