

Cancer Information & Support Centre Makeover

Portsmouth Hospitals Charity

The Centre, which is supported by Portsmouth Hospitals Charity and Macmillan, usually welcomes between 50 and 70 visitors a day, and offers support and information to people affected by cancer.

Staff and volunteers in the centre provide a wide range of free services including complementary therapies, counselling, hypnotherapy and financial advice. Portsmouth Hospitals Charity funded new equipment and soft furnishings across the centre, following a recent inspection where recommendations were made to improve the space for patients.

“Our Cancer Information and Support Centre has been well-loved by the people of Portsmouth and surrounding areas for many years, unfortunately it was starting to look tired and in need of a refresh. Thankfully we had received a very generous gift in the will of one of our oncology patients that enabled this to happen to a beautiful standard,” said Emma Brown, Centre Manager.
